

Resilience of the Haico treadmill running surface.

Tampere University of Technology, Finland.

Research has established that a very high similarity exists between the surfaces found in nature grass and that of the Haico treadmill.

The naturelike surface doesn't strain the horses legs even in strenuous training. Over 6000 test runs without any problems with horses legs shows the similarity between Haico running surface and nature grass.